

NAZI TRICK GAINS NEW NORWAY AREA

COUNCIL MAKES NO DECISION ON LEVY PROPOSAL

Division of Opinion Voiced by Citizens: Session Set for Thursday Night.

Mayor Snare and his city administration
are to discuss the proposed levy to finance improvements in the city at a special meeting
of the city council
at 7:30 p. m. tonight.

The matter stands now without any of four courses being chosen:

1. Propose a one-mill levy for fire protection improvements.
2. Propose a similar levy for street lighting. (Possibly like the one defeated in a special election Jan. 30.)
3. Propose both relief and fire protection levies.
4. Propose none at all.

The last of these four courses seems logical to some citizens for the simple reason that they are convinced it is impossible to put over a levy at this time.
Others feel certain that to propose both levies would be futile.
Still others think a relief levy would pass but that a fire department
levy would fail, while some think the opposite would be true.

Another proposal, which would involve a levy at all, was made by Chas. B. Welch, secretary of the Central Labor Union (A. F. of L.), who suggested that council give serious consideration to the union resolution asking the city
to extend a mile in each direction to provide more funds.
He also suggested reapportionment of city council as a means of increasing revenue.

The meeting opened with President Snare calling for opinions on the proposed fire protection levy. This was the only levy which was definitely scheduled by the administration for consideration. The levy proposal had been drafted by Solicitor General Robinson following a meeting of city officials and community leaders Friday night.

Communications Read
No one in the gallery offered to speak for the proposals, so Clerk Guthrie read favorable communications from Mrs. W. E.
Grant, president of the city P. A. council; the Junior Chamber of Commerce; Kiwanis club;
and the manufacturers committee of the Chamber of Commerce. The clerk pointed out that fire department equipment is antiquated,
that the improvements would prevent an increase in insurance rates imposed by the National Board of Fire Underwriters; and that the levy would not be a great burden. The letter was from Wilson Bradlee, president, Cutler division of the Kiwanis club, and George Brown of the C. of C. committee telephoned their favorable expressions.

President Snare then called for expressions of opposition to the fire protection levy.

Opposition Voiced
None. Eaton of True Blue Club (C. I. O. union) said his organization is opposed to it at this time. He said it is a matter of reductions in

Lippmann Analyzes War After Tour of Europe

Sees Allies, Rather Than Hitler, Guiding Course of War and Forcing Open Fighting.

Columbian Walter Lippmann
has just returned from Europe
where he gathered first-hand information about conditions there.
Hereafter is the first of a series of articles covering his observations.

We are witnessing the second phase of the gigantic struggle
which began in the East, has now spread to the North, and is surely destined to spread to the West and the Southeast.

When Hitler came to power,
Germany was entirely surrounded except at one point, by small nations. France was the one great power with which Germany had a common frontier; that frontier is impassable on the Rhine, and beyond the Rhine Germany and France were separated by the demilitarized zone of the German territory on the left bank of the Rhine. No other great power in military contact with Germany

the neighbors of Germany were Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, Switzerland, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Lithuania and Denmark.

As long as this circle of small nations was maintained, it was practically impossible to fight a great European war. There was no battlefield. It has followed that as Hitler has destroyed his small neighbors, he has created battlefields. His conquests have meant that he has been removing the buffers between Germany and the great powers of Europe. The Austrian conquest brought him into contact with Italy; the Polish conquest brought him into contact with Russia; the invasion of Scandinavia has brought him into contact with Great Britain; the invasion of Holland and Belgium will bring him into contact with France; an invasion of the Balkans will bring him into contact with Russia, Italy, Turkey, Great Britain and France. Thus the more he expands, the greater are the forces with which he must deal.

Although Hitler foresaw that he could not expand without a struggle, his plan was to manage the thing in such a way that he could deal separately with each of his potential opponents. He intended to destroy them on the installment plan, as he had destroyed Austria and then Czechoslovakia. His nightmare has always been that he might have to face a coalition of the great powers of Europe, and his cries of rage against Britain
reflect his fear that once again,
as in the case of Napoleon Bonaparte,
Great Britain will organize Europe to suppress an attempt at the domination of Europe. The fact that Hitler has opened up a northern front means that he realizes that the strategic plan of the Allies, which is to organize Europe against him, will be successful unless he can somehow strike a fatal blow at the heart of the Anglo-French power.

For nothing is more certain,
amidst all the risks and uncertainties of the battles which have begun, than that the six months' pause has ended because the Allies have been compelled either to come out and fight, or local initiative in the sense that he has been able to choose Scandinavia rather than the Low Countries or the Balkans for the first battlefield, it is the Allies who are dictating the grand strategy of the war.

From the very beginning they have conceived the war as a siege
in which all of Europe would eventually participate, and they have organized their prodigious efforts on the theory that the siege would compel Hitler to fight
his way out, and to become exhausted and to be defeated in the attempt. Since the failure of the policy appeasement, the Allies
have never altered their funda-

550 Register On Final Day To Set
Primary Record

Busiest primary registration day
in the memory of election officials came yesterday as the deadline for qualifying for voting in the May 14 election fell.

Registrations for the day numbered 550 and transfers 160, but despite the large number there was no concentrated rush. There seemed to be a steady flow, with the result that there was no long line at the 6:30 deadline. Two or three people tried to get in the offices after 6:30 but had to be turned back.

Saturday Rush Topped
Officials thought the 220 registrations and 72 transfers of Saturday were unusual until yesterday's big totals came along.

Since the special election on
Jan. 30 there have been about 1,450 registrations and 480 transfers, but there are still hundreds of Marionites who are not properly registered at the election board
and hence will be unable to vote
on May 14.

Reasons for the heavy registration for the primary are apparently numerous. Candidates with opposition were active in lining up qualified voters, the Junior Chamber of Commerce conducted a campaign and The Star carried almost daily warnings of the approaching deadline.

1,000 Is All-Time High Yesterday's totals are short of the all-time record of more than 1,000 set on the final day of registration for the November 1936
election, the year of the Roosevelt landslide. However, yesterday's totals were the largest for primary registration, officials believe.

Meanwhile, absentee voting is under way at the election board offices and four persons have already applied for ballots. They are C. C. Fry of 188 East George street, Abbott House of 151 North Grand avenue, Edison D. Hastings of 484 1/2 West Center street and J. L. Shaw of 148 West Walnut street.

MAN KILLED NEAR MARTEL
BURIED; NOT IDENTIFIED
Efforts to establish the identity of a transient killed under the wheels of a Big Four freight train near Martel were stalemated yesterday. Elmore, N. Y., police reported they were unable to locate any one acquainted with Clarence Dacey,
the name found on papers in the victim's clothing.

The transient, about 40 years old, apparently fell beneath the wheels as he attempted to jump
from the westbound train. Services were conducted yesterday at the Timson-Allen funeral home in Caledonia and burial was made in Caledonia cemetery.

BANDIT HOLDS UP TWO MEN IN UPTOWN AREA

Stages Robbery at Filling Station, Opposite Post Office; Gets About $15.

An armed, unmasked bandit
held up an attendant and a visitor
at the Bateman Sunoco filling station at South State and Church streets shortly before 9:30 last night and obtained between $12
and $15.

George Balsley of 1056 Wilson
avenue, the attendant, and a friend,
Edward Hachten of 269
Marion avenue, told police the bandit apparently "knew what he was doing" and was able to keep the robbery shielded from the eyes of motorists and pedestrians who passed by the station during the holdup.

Mr. Balsley said he and Mr.
Hachten were in the office talking when the bandit walked in the front door and went to the rest room. In a few minutes he came out, walked toward the front door and then quickly turned around and grabbed Mr. Hachten
by the arm.

At the same time, Mr. Balsley said, the bandit drew a blue-steel automatic pistol from his pocket and pointed it toward the attendant. Half pushing Mr. Hachten and using him as a shield,
against any possible attempt by Mr. Balsley to resist, the robber then ordered the two men into the rest room.

Once in the rest room the group
was out of the view of passers-
by and the bandit ordered Mr.
Balsley to give him "the dough."
First the attendant handed him a metal change holder containing several dollars and the bandit
showed it into his overcoat pocket.

Calls for Paper Money
"O. K.," Mr. Balsley quoted the bandit as saying, "now give me the bills."

Throughout the holdup the gunman appeared to be afraid that one of the men would recognize him or get a good description of him and he kept turning up the collar of his coat in an attempt to shield his face. Mr. Balsley recalled.

As he took a small roll of bills which Mr. Balsley handed him, he kept watching Mr. Hachten, who was voluntarily removing the contents of his pockets.

Apparently satisfied that he had obtained all of the attendant's
cash and seeing that Mr. Hachten did not have a billfold or loose change, he ordered the men to "stay here 15 minutes" and then fled from the station.

Mr. Balsley said he and Mr.
Hachten remained in the rest room a few seconds and by the time they got to the front door
the bandit had disappeared. They told police that if the robber had a car, he apparently had parked
it some distance from the station.

Awaited Opportunity
They also expressed the opinion that the bandit had been watching the station for several minutes before entering, possibly from the lobby of the post office directly across the street, because there had been a steady stream of customers earlier in the evening.

He entered the station, they reported, almost immediately after two customers drove away.

Mr. Balsley and Mr. Hachten described the bandit as being about 35 years old, 6 feet tall, slender, and as having a thin face and prominent nose. He wore a brown overcoat and brown hat
and most of his clothing appeared to be new.

Bucyrus Man Dies
Suddenly While Digging Grave

SPECIAL TO THE STAR
BUCYRUS, April 16 — Frank D. Rogers, 68, of Bucyrus, died of a heart attack at 7:30 this morning while digging a grave at Oakwood cemetery. He was working with several other men
opening a grave for the body of Mrs. Dorothy L. Overholt, 33, who died Sunday.

Mr. Rogers had been in ill health for two years. A native of Bucyrus, he was married Sept.
27, 1933 to Etta Carris. His wife and two children, Vernon D. and Mrs. W. D. Pirsch, both of Bucyrus, survive.

Services will be conducted Thursday at 2 p. m. at the Wise
funeral home with Rev. C. L.
Burghardt, pastor of the Church of Christ, in charge. Burial will be made in Oakwood cemetery.

strike.

Former Marionite Jailed in Florida on Bigamy Charge

Burton L. Fisher Given
1-Year Term; Faces
Check Charges.

Burton L. Fisher, 40-year-old former Marion resident, was being held in Dade county jail at Miami, Fla., today, preparing to begin a one-year term on a bigamy charge. The Associated Press reported.

Fisher, who was employed by a local firm as a heating equipment salesman until he disappeared in February, pleaded guilty to the bigamy charge in Dade county criminal court and was ordered to serve the sentence at the Florida state penitentiary at Rustford, Fla. He was being held at Miami today, however, pending arraignment on a bad check charge.

A retainer also has been filed at Miami asking that he be turned over to Marion officials on author check charge when the Florida cases are disposed of.

Married March 10
Florida officials reported today
that Fisher was married in Miami March 10 to a woman who gave the name of Carlotta Green. The Associated Press report did not state whether the second Mrs.
Fisher is a Florida woman or is from Ohio. His first wife, Mrs.
Melvina M. Fisher, lived here until recently.

Deputy Joe Condemann
of Dade county told an Associated Press reporter today that Fisher
was first arrested on a fraudulent check complaint filed by a Miami hotel and at that time was going under the name of Albert E. Kurtz.

During questioning, however,
the man admitted that his real name was Fisher and that he was wanted in Marion, Deputy Con-demann reported. Further investigation resulted in the bigamy charge.

Charge Filed Here Feb. 26
The Marion charge was filed in municipal court here Feb. 26, charging that Fisher forged the name of the L. L. Bechtle & Son firm on a check for $54. Mr.
Fisher was employed as a salesman by the Bechtle firm at the time he allegedly issued the check but disappeared before the forgery charge was filed, local officials reported.

Officials here said today they are planning to return Fisher to Marion to face this charge as soon as they can obtain custody of him
but that this probably will not be until after he has completed the bigamy sentence and faced the check charge filed in the Florida
court.

After Fisher's disappearance
from his home at 891 South Prospect street in February, Marion police trailed him to Cincinnati
where his car was found aban-

MARYSVILLE SCHOOL ISSUE FLARES AGAIN

Business Men Ask Board To Retain Superintendent

SPECIAL TO THE STAR
MARYSVILLE, O., April 16 —
Protests against the school board's acceptance of the resignation of Supt. F. C. Billkofer flared anew when the Marysville Business Men's association announced its directors had adopted a resolution asking that Mr. Bil-kofer be retained for two years.

The directors also asked the school board to appear at a public meeting to explain its intentions with regard to the resolution.

The resolution stated: "Be it resolved that this association hold a special meeting in the near future, public invited, to receive an acknowledgment of this resolution from the board of education and a statement as to its intentions, so that further action
may be taken."

When contacted Paul Hutchinson, clerk of the board, said he had not received the resolution
as yet and did not know what action the board might take in regard to it.

LOWLANDS ALERT

European war developments
place Holland and Belgium in a precarious position. The lowlands are concerned with the possibility that, in event of an invasion, an insurgent government might suddenly appear in their capitals. Jonkhoeur W.
Roell, above, former commander of the Netherlands field
army, told a National Youth league in Holland that military troops or persons who might have plans for a "puppet government" should be hanged.

HOLLAND TRIAL NEARING END

13 Defense Witnesses Testify About Man Who Accused
Former Marionite.

SPECIAL TO THE STAR
TROY, O., April 16 — A parade of witnesses, arranged by the defense to attack the character of a young man whose confession implicated Gustav A. Holland in the $100,000 Holland Mills
fire at Plaquemine, Dec. 18, testified in common pleas court here today.

Holland, former secretary and vice president of Old Port Mills, Inc., of Marion, finished his testimony yesterday noon. Immediately the defense began to call various Plaquemine residents to tell what they knew of William Dowdy, Plaquemine mill worker,
who said Holland had induced him
to set fire to the mills in order to aid his own mill of competition.
Dowdy is now in Mansfield reformatory for his part in the fire.

13 Testify
Thirteen persons, most of them
employees of the Holland Mills
where Dowdy worked at the time of the fire, testified late yesterday and this morning. The employees
all said Dowdy had been a troublemaker and that his reputation for truth and veracity was poor.

Common Pleas Judge Paul
Klapp ruled yesterday that witnesses did not have to tell from whom they had heard comments on Dowdy's character. Several witnesses said they had heard Dowdy's reputation for truth was poor, but could not name the persons, who told them.

The judge also ruled that Dowdy's estranged wife, Dorothy,
a waitress, could not testify unfavorably concerning his character, being still married to him.

Mrs. Dowdy Questioned
On cross examination Mrs.
Dowdy said that Dowdy came to the tavern where she works shortly before the fire and asked her to come back with him, declaring he would soon have money to pay up his bills. She asked him where he would get it and he replied "You'll see" and left.

She also testified that she believed that if Dowdy did set the mills on fire someone paid him to do it.

Dowdy has declared Holland offered to "take care of him" and pay up his bills if he would set the fire.

The judge also made another interesting ruling, holding that the defense could not introduce school records purporting to show
a low level of intelligence in Dowdy. The defense sought to introduce results of an intelligence test taken by Dowdy in the sixth grade. He is now 28.

Doctor Testifies
Dr. I. C. Kiser of Plaquemine testified that Dowdy was working at his home he stole a watch.
The doctor also declared he believed Dowdy was an example of "emotional psychosis"—emotionally unstable. The doctor was to be cross examined this afternoon.

The defense indicated this noon
that it would finish today, but the jury is not expected to receive the case until late tomorrow. The trial began last Wednesday. The audience has been averaging about 200 persons.

TROOP TRAIN RUSHED TO TERRITORY STILL HELD BY DEFENDERS

WAR DEVELOPMENTS AT-A-GLANCE
By The Associated Press

London—Allies pour big expeditionary force into Norway
to oppose German invaders and impress wavering neutrals. R. A. F. raiders smash for seventh time at Stavanger. Nazis' most important Norwegian air base.

Stockholm—Vanguard of British troops and Norwegian forces reported in joint possession of Narvik; fleeing Germans said to be trapped in interior.

Berlin—Germans see British fleet moving with transports off northern Norway but deny landings effected in German-controlled areas; Norwegian radio station

Allies Moving Strong Force into Norway

By The Associated Press
LONDON, April 16—The Allied command, already having reported its first troops on Norwegian soil, is moving a large expeditionary force across the North sea
not only to oppose German invaders in Norway, but to convince wavering neutrals of British-French offensive power.

The very secrecy with which detail of the movement are veiled emphasizes its importance.
A war office-admittedly statement yesterday that British forces had "landed at several points in Norway" was amplified by unofficial reports and indications that the follow-up forces include both British and French soldiers, with large stores of food and ammunition, and such equipment as trucks, armored cars and tanks.

It was announced by British Minister Chamberlain would answer a question in the house of commons today relating to the position of Greenland in the Scandinavian situation.

There was a possibility the Prime Minister would make a more complete statement on the Scandinavian situation, although informed quarters thought he would refrain from doing so at this crucial stage of events.

Send Finnish Force
It appears that the expeditionary force represents all or part of the 100,000 men the Allies offered to Finland before her peace with Soviet Russia, or other troops facilitated by the arrangements for transport and supply that were completed at that time.

Diplomatic quarters underlined
the importance of the Allied counter offensive in Scandinavia, and expressed belief that successes
thus far had thwarted any Nazi attempt to stampede neutral nations into climbing on the German bandwagon.

Italy especially, diplomatic observers said, would be impressed by the Allied display of sea power making the expedition possible,
and think twice before switching from non-belligerency to active belligerency.

In the week that has followed the Nazi occupation of Denmark and the first German landings on Norwegian shores, Allied naval forces—almost entirely British—

Nazis Give King Haakon One Chance
To Continue Claim to Norway Throne

By The Associated Press
BERLIN, April 16—Authorized German sources intimated today
that King Haakon VII of Norway, whom they described as the "captive" of his advisers, has one more chance to save his throne—by recognizing the interim government established at Oslo with Berlin's approval.

This government, it was said,
derived its authority from the president of the Norwegian supreme court, who set up the new regime through powers regarded as devolving upon him under the Norwegian constitution when the regular government is unable to function.

Such a condition, authorized sources said, now exists in Norway.

The German high command reported further strengthening of the Nazi position in Norway and denied that British troops had gained a foothold in German-occupied areas.

The communique said that
"Arona" British naval forces, accompanied by troop transports,
had been observed yesterday off Narvik and Harstad, 35 miles to the north, but said there had been no attempt at a landing there.

Two British planes were reported shot down in raids on Narvik and Stavanger, and "pacification" of southern Norway was said to be "proceeding on schedule." North of Kristiansund, on the southwest coast, 2,150 officers and men of the third Norwegian division were said to have surrendered after a "short attack" by Nazi troops.

Coastal defenses at Stavanger, Trondheim and Bergen—all in German hands—were augmented,
the high command said. DNB

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday April 17
EXCELLENT auguries are found among the lunar as well as mutual configurations of the major planets to justify the fulfillment of the fondest hopes and wishes. This applies not only to business and everyday matters, but also to social, educational, philanthropic and romantic ambitions and aspirations. It is a most auspicious time for pushing to high goals, with promotion, increased fortune, prestige and popularity assured. There may be much celebration or merriment, but beware of hasty changes and unexpected disruptions.
Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of decidedly expanding, progressive and warming planetary influences. Promotion, increased finances, enhanced personal popularity and prestige, with the hearty support of those in high places, are assured. There may be romantic attachments, gaiety, celebrations and conviviality. But remain in familiar environs; do not change the scene or go in search of audacious adventure, which may suddenly be presented.

A child born on this day may be efficient, versatile, dependable and ambitious. An outstanding and powerful personality should insure it success and high station in life. Its greatest achievements may be made at home.

Daily Pattern for Home Use

By ANNE ADAMS

CHIC AFTERNOON SKIRT-WAISTED
PATTERN 4444

A dress-up skirtwaist style is a summer wardrobe "must-have." Anne Adams has given Pattern 4444 many gay unexpected touches. First of all, the flaring, puffed skirt flaunts impudent pouch pockets that hold nothing but a hankie and style interest. Shoulder yokes attractively curve at either side of the round or gaily scalloped neckline. Notice the striking front buttoning that lets you in and out at top speed. The bloused bodice lines are darted-in below the yokes. Use lace edging or have the sleeve-labs, pocket tops, belt and buttons in bold contrast.

Pattern 4444 is available in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30. Size 16 takes 3 1/2 yards 35 inch fabric and 1/4 yard contrast.

ROOSEVELT TOLD TO MIND OWN BUSINESS

Nazis Suggest They Be Left Alone by America.

By The Associated Press
BERLIN, April 16.—Commenting on President Roosevelt's recently expressed disapproval of the Nazi invasion of Norway, authorized German sources suggested bluntly today that he would do well to mind his own business. "All we ask," these sources said, "is that American history be examined from the viewpoint of necessities at various times for national expansion. We believe that far-sighted Americans will then realize there are striking parallels between American needs in the past and German needs at present."

"In urging that nobody mix in the affairs of another country, but beyond that, Europe demands that European affairs be regulated in a European manner and not according to American principles or interpretations."

STATE TO DROP 300 PROVISIONALS MAY 1

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., April 16.—Approximately 300 provisional Ohio employees will be dismissed by May 1 and only partially replaced, a survey of major state departments showed today.

The contemplated action follows a recent state supreme court decision that nearly 5,000 provisionals were appointed illegally before approval of non-competitive examinations. Workers remained on the state payroll after the ruling through emergency 30-day appointments.

Contemplated dismissals include 200 in the highway department with about half of the jobs to be refilled, 68 from the division of aid for the aged, 17 from public works, about eight from the tax department and "three or four" from the bureau of unemployment compensation.

Applicants for nearly all the liquor department's 550 jobs held by provisionals will be taken from civil service lists now being prepared, said Director Jacob B. Taylor. No other replacements are contemplated, he added.

Common Sense About Constipation

A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with constipation is get it out. That way you don't have to endure it first and try to "cure" it afterward—you can avoid having it.

Chances are you won't have to look far for the cause if you eat the super-refined foods most people do. Most likely you don't get enough "bulk" and "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft, "bulky" mass in the intestines.

If this is what you lack, try crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains just the "bulk" you need.

Eat All-Bran often, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." Made by Kellogg's All-Bran Co. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

Lippmann Tells of War Scene

mental conception of how the war might be prevented, and how, if it came, it would have to be won. Their plan is to organize Europe against the Nazis. Hitler has several times altered his conception of the war. The fact that the Allies have thus far imposed their strategic intentions upon Hitler is objective evidence, far more reliable than the words of statesmen or the impressions of observers, that thus far, and until Hitler can win sensational victories, the Allies occupy the superior position and possess the superior force.

Hitler's Plans Revised

For it is the weaker side which must vacillate and must improvise; to be the stronger is to be able to fix the conditions in which a war is to be decided and to compel the enemy to submit to them. It is thus of vital importance to know whether it is in fact true that the Allies, not Hitler, are imposing their strategic plans upon the conduct of the war.

Now, there is no substantial doubt. In fact, the Nazi leaders and propagandists admit it—that since August, 1939, Hitler has several times revised his fundamental conception of the war. His first plan, obviously, was to avoid war altogether for the present and to destroy Poland as he had destroyed Czechoslovakia, by another Munich. That plan failed when the Poles decided to fight. His second plan was to localize the Polish war by intimidating the Allies into abandoning their guarantee to Poland. This was the primary purpose of the Russian treaty. The threat did not work.

His third plan was to conquer Poland quickly, and then to make peace with the Allies. This plan was not only a mistake; it was a stupendous blunder. It gave the Allies time to mobilize thoroughly; for their mobilization requires at least three weeks. Once the war had begun, there was therefore never the slightest possibility that the Allies would make peace and demobilize while Hitler's war machine was intact. For if the Allies had accepted the peace which Hitler offered them in October, demobilization would have been the equivalent of military suicide. At any time thereafter they would have been open to a Western blitzkrieg, having no Polish ally to hold up the Germans for the short but absolutely vital three weeks which they would have needed in order to mobilize again.

Hitler's fourth plan was to fight a very expensive war against Great Britain, using submarines, magnetic mines and a few airplanes—but to leave France alone—to conserve his stocks of raw materials, to loot the conquered territory, to enslave the inhabitants and to organize the Russian production. He believed in the decadence of the democracies. He hoped that he could lure out the Allies and that he could demoralize their fighting spirit, that he could divide them by propaganda, could undermine them by subversive conspiracy (using the Communists to corrupt the working classes and the defectors to corrupt the rich); he hoped that either he could wage a truce or that he could provoke the Allies to rush and foolish adventures.

Plan Fails

This plan was explored thoroughly during the winter. The plan failed because it was a fantasy. The Nazis realized, approximately about the time of the Summer Welles mission to Europe, that the Russian production cannot be organized to serve Germany's war needs. The task is technically impossible in any reasonable length of time and, moreover, the Russians have made it clear enough that they will passively resist such an undertaking. Second, the Allies were restrained partly by good sense, and partly by good luck, from involving themselves in a disastrous and useless war with Russia. Third, the free peoples are not decadent. There were changes in the cabinets in London and Paris which brought to greater influence men who were determined not to sit and wait while Hitler decided how it would suit him to fight the war.

So the Allies tightened the blockade. They meant to compel Hitler to do what the fundamental strategy of the Allies has always required him to do—namely to succumb, or to come out from behind the protection afforded by the surrounding neutrals, and to let his main forces become directly engaged with the Allied forces. Plainly this is not what Hitler wished to do. It is evident that he did not choose to make the offensive in the west. Had he really wished to make the offensive he would have done so before he attacked Poland, or, at least, he would have done so in the autumn when the Allied and neutral defenses were much less formidable than they are today.

No doubt the Allies would have been glad of a few months delay to improve their armaments still further; they would then have been able to deliver an even more effective counter-attack than may be possible for some time to come. But this is in itself additional evidence to support the conclusion that Hitler's decision to attack in the west has been dictated, not by confidence in his own power, but by fear of the mounting power of his enemies—that he is moved by necessity and not by his preferences and convictions.

Allied Strategy

Allied strategy has from the outset been determined by two controlling considerations. The first, which is now generally understood, is that the blockade, however severe, can undermine the military power of Germany only if Germany is compelled to use up her stocks of raw materials faster than they can be replenished by looting the small countries and by imports through the holes in the blockade. The Allies can get the maximum result from the blockade only if the fighting becomes a war of attrition. Therefore, regardless of the local and tactical result of the fighting, provided of course, the Germans do not deliver a knockout blow, the blockade is a decisive weapon provided that Germany is compelled to fight a large scale action which lasts until her economic weakness becomes a critical factor.

But this is not the only reason why the Allied strategy has always been, and is now, to compel Hitler to fight. The Allies understand that they must engage in battle the force with which Hitler has terrorized the whole of Europe. For only by taking this risk can they raise up against Hitler that coalition of the powers of Europe which will eventually destroy him. The Allies can create the coalition only by supreme courage and tremendous sacrifice. But with courage they will create it. For the plain fact about Europe today is that every people in Europe, a large part of the German people included, is a potential ally of the Allies. There are no important exceptions. Though there are Nazi agents and sympathizers planted about Europe, there is no people which does not dread a Nazi victory, none which does not heed Hitler's eventual downfall. What has happened in Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Denmark and Norway and may happen tomorrow in Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, Yugoslavia, Hungary and Rumania, has created a state of mind throughout Europe in which a fierce enmity is held in check by a tremendous fear.

Europe Looks to Allies
Hitler knows this. The Allies know it. If Hitler can destroy the Allied power, Europe will submit to his domination and other adventurers will participate in the looting which will follow the world-wide anarchy. But if Hitler cannot destroy the Allies, then the Allies will, by liberating the peoples of Europe from their terror, rally to their banner a coalition of Europe. The outcome is no longer dependent on propaganda, but on a military decision. The hope of Europe are with the Allies. The fears of Europe are fixed upon the striking power of the German military machine. Remove that fear and all of Europe will take part in the victory over Hitler.

But that fear cannot be removed until the peoples of Europe see, and are sure that they have seen, the Allies draw into battle and engage totally the armed power which Hitler wields. In this sense it is literally true that the British and French are fighting not only for themselves but for all the peoples of Europe. For only when the intimidated peoples see Hitler's engines of aggression fixed on some battlefield, being burned up and used up beyond the possibilities of their quick renewal, will the great fear subside. Then, and only then, will the coalition that now exists in the hearts of the peoples emerge as a practical instrument of their liberation.

The Allies have allies everywhere. But for the help of these allies they must pay a heavy price. They must risk everything. The price they have to pay is the cost of drawing down upon themselves and, therefore, drawing away from the other peoples, the thunderbolts that Hitler can launch. Then the terrified peoples of Europe will once again call their souls their own and be able to do what their vital interests and their profoundest sentiments will cause them to do.

have cleared the seaways sufficiently to permit a large scale movement of manpower, with a warship convoy.

The Scandinavian counter-offensive has been getting a bad press in Italy.

Planes Hammer Away
The royal air force, challenging the Nazis for supremacy over the North sea and Scandinavia, kept hammering at the airframe of Stavanger, on the south Norwegian coast. The British said at least two German seaplanes were sunk there yesterday when bombers made their sixth raid.

Stavanger was singled out for repeated attacks because its airframe is considered the only efficient Norwegian base for large scale attacks on the English and Scottish coasts, and the terminus for German transport planes carrying supplies and men to Norway.

The admiralty said that the British merchant fleet had suffered no losses during the week ending at midnight Sunday—the first week since the beginning of the war without a loss.

Total German merchant shipping losses were put at 363,930 tons, and it was said that the actual losses might exceed 400,000 tons.

Vice Admiral William J. Whitworth (above) was reported to have been in command of the British fleet which penetrated the Fjord of Narvik and sank seven German warships. Admiral Whitworth directed the fight from the flagship H.M.S. Warspite according to the British announcement.

NEW NAVY AIR BASE URGED ON CONGRESS

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, April 16.—While a more formidable fleet was being urged on Congress because of the European war, the navy evinced interest today in acquiring a base in the southern Caribbean to plug a potential chink in Panama canal defenses.

It discussed this subject in a statement answering a series of questions from Chairman Walsh (D-Mass.) of the senate naval committee.

"A fleet airbase in the southern corner of the Caribbean," the navy department said, "would undoubtedly add to the security of the area as well as to the ability of the United States fleet to insure the integrity of the Monroe doctrine."

"A base for the United States fleet located in this vicinity would afford a strategically centralized position which should permit our fleet to operate in any direction."

Existing naval installations in Florida, Cuba and Puerto Rico cannot most of the Atlantic approaches to the canal, but the United States has no bases to guard the flank adjacent to the totempost port of South America.

The islands in those waters are British and French possessions. Their acquisition in lieu of war debt payments has been suggested frequently in Congress.

Admiral Harold R. Stark, testifying yesterday at senate hearings on the $55,000,000 fleet expansion bill, advocated a 25 per cent increase in the navy construction program, and cautioned against any delay in current building.

The present fleet, he said, "is too small—much too small" to deal with any combination of hostile nations that could command the captured naval might of Britain and France.

One surprise in his testimony was the statement that three of the fleet's dreadnoughts would be valuable in a naval engagement because their main batteries had not been modernized. The insufficient elevation of their guns, he said, would put them at the mercy of lighter cruisers.

The allies, meanwhile, cleared away the final obstacle to large scale buying of American warplanes. Their purchasing mission agreed "without reservation" to the United States requirements, including the condition that they help defray the expense of developing improved models to succeed the craft being released to them.

Employers of Mr. Fisher here said he came to Marion from Cleveland about three years ago, being recommended for the salesman's job for a large stoker manufacturer for whom he had formerly worked in Cleveland.

The family lived on Canby court and then moved to South Prospect street. Friends said that Mrs. Melvina Fisher, the Fisher's three-year-old son, Myron, and Mr. Fisher's mother, lived at the South Prospect street home for several weeks after Mr. Fisher disappeared.

About a month ago, when no word had been received as to Mr. Fisher's whereabouts, the family moved to Cleveland and is now with a brother of Mrs. Fisher, the friends said.

MEMORIAL PARK PUT IN RECEIVERSHIP TODAY

CINCINNATI, April 16.—Hopes for Memorial park, the scene of cemetery lot sales which resulted in several convictions on fraud charges a year ago, was in the hands of a receiver today.

John P. Strother, Cincinnati attorney, was named by Judge Joseph M. Wronski of common pleas court to direct affairs of the burial lot association on the petition of Lee and Estella M. Tester of Wapakoneta.

Defendants named in the receivership petition included Morton Gilbert, serving a 15-year term in the Atlanta penitentiary imposed after his conviction on charges of using the mails to defraud in Hopewell lot sales.

Bad Days Ahead for Norway as Struggle Grows

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Ally and German alike continue to strain every nerve in their drive to prepare for the inevitable land and air battle for possession of Norway.

The day of bloody reckoning among Norway's lowering mountains is approaching, but thus far the only actual clash between allied expeditionary foot-soldiers which have been landed and the occupying Germans has been at the far northern port of Narvik.

Here the British, in cooperation with Norwegian contingents, are said to have driven the Nazis back into the hills.

The English landing operations have been shrouded in secrecy, but apparently the Britons have yet tried to fight their way ashore at such strategic points as Trondheim or Bergen. If they had we should have heard the sound of conflict.

Point Own Attack

Trondheim looks to me like a logical point for an allied attack soon. It is a highly important port and rail-head, giving access to the southern part of the country.

The capture of Narvik is of great value potentially, but it is of little assistance in bringing the allies into the vital area south of the towering mountains, for Narvik has no direct communications by land with southern Norway.

It is, however, the terminus of the railroad running to the famous Swedish iron mines which precipitated the battle of Norway, because of their vital importance to the Germans.

The British have a considerable way to go to get their troops into the southern area. However, they are proceeding with the methodical thoroughness for which they are famous.

Continued allied success in the battle of Norway to my mind can mean nothing else than that as Adolf Hitler sees his great gamble sinking into a terribly costly defeat he will lash out in other directions in an effort to offset his losses.

May Spread Quickly

At any moment the Scandinavian conflict may start running across Europe like a prairie fire. The only thing which might forestall such a bloody catastrophe would be a heavy allied reverse, giving the Nazis renewed hope of making their Norwegian invasion stick.

WAR BRIEFS

By The Associated Press

FRENCH PLANE FALLS

BRUSSELS, April 16.—A French plane fell in flames today, killing one of the crew and injuring two others, after a fight with a German plane near Londer, near the French border.

REPORT HAAKON FLEES

NEW YORK, April 16.—A NBC said today that according to reports reaching the German capital King Haakon of Norway and his government had fled across the border into Sweden.

REPORT CRUISER SUNK

BERLIN, April 16.—The German high command announced today a British cruiser was attacked and sunk by German bombers yesterday off the Norwegian coast.

The high command said the ship heavily damaged, listed sharply and later sank.

It also announced that a British Amphibious plane had been destroyed.

DENY NARVIK TAKEN

BERLIN, April 16.—A statement by DNB, the official German news agency, today implied that the Germans still held Narvik, Norway's Arctic sea port. The agency said that English destroyers opened "desultory fire" on the port of Narvik the afternoon of April 15 but made no attempt to land either in the port or nearby because of the stout German defense.

Rules Announced for Casting Tournament

This event will be scored on a demerit system, as follows: For each foot or fraction of a foot the plug falls outside the line, one demerit will be given. If the plug strikes the edge of the target or falls inside, it will be scored "0"; a miss of three feet will be marked "3," and so on. The total number of demerits for the 10 casts, subtracted from 100 will constitute a contestant's tournament score for the event. High score will win.

For the fly casting for accuracy event, the following will prevail: The five targets will be strung out on a straight line from the casting box, with the first ring at 35 feet and the last one at 55 feet, five feet apart from center to center. The caster will extend enough line to reach the first target, will call "score" and make the cast at the first ring. He will repeat with a second cast at the first ring, then strip off what he thinks will reach the second target, lift the line, make his back-cast and shoot at the second target. He will repeat the cast to the third target and continue to the fifth target, repeating the process until he has had two tries at each of the five targets. The same system of scoring will be used in the bait casting event, with an additional demerit if any back-cast touches the ground.

In the bait casting for distance event each contestant will make three casts and will be rated by the longest cast. No leaders will be permitted.

Fly Casting for Distance In the fly casting event for distance each contestant will make three casts and will be rated by the longest. The sponsors state that in this event any false casts may be made as are necessary, but a back-cast that touches the ground will disqualify the forward cast.

Reveal Great Discovery About CONSTIPATION

Unit of World-Famous Hospital Show How to Help Nature Produce Her Own Gentle, Complete "Daily" Bowel Action!

NEW YORK: Constipation sufferers rejoice! For now violent cathartics and laxatives and harsh "roughage" products, many of which are habit forming and are often irritating to bowel lining—can be avoided.

You can now actually help Nature produce her own gentle, complete "daily" bowel movements—thanks to the patient study of 16 Scientists.

You see it waste matter in the colon isn't it? Now it becomes hard, dry, caked and results in constipation. These scientists discovered that a "little daily dose" of Kruschen actually keeps this waste matter moist, soft and easy to expel. Also acts as a mild enema and is very durable.

There is no nausea, no griping, no violence. Kruschen reports: "Kruschen can be taken for years without having to increase the dose." Inexpensive! Only a trifle for a 350,000,000 jars of Kruschen have been sold throughout the world. Kruschen must be the world's best!

Program Marks Anniversary of O. E. S. Chapter

Forty-third anniversary of the organization of Lydia Chapter No. 53, Order of Eastern Star, was observed last evening at Masonic Temple with special honors accorded charter members, past matrons and past patrons.

About 135 members were present for the dinner preceding the program, which was attended by approximately 250 members and guests.

Eight of the chapter's 17 living charter members were present. Mr. and Mrs. David M. Odaffer of Columbus, Mrs. Laura Domagala, Mrs. Mary Shurtz, Mrs. Emma Herzer, Mrs. Bertha Cheney, Mrs. Jessie Clark and Mrs. Rose Brown.

Dinner was served at 6 o'clock at long tables attractively decorated with spring flowers and lighted by candles in pastel shades.

The charter members were presented with bound copies of the chapter's history from its institution on April 19, 1897, through 1938, and the chapter was presented a leather-bound copy.

Presentation of the chapter's history was made by Mrs. Florence Wood, who was worthy matron in 1937-38 when compiling of the history was started. Compiling, editing, printing and binding of the book was in charge of Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Lauretta Carhart, Mrs. Florence Pickersel, secretary, and Herbert C. Wolfe.

In a ceremony by the star points, marshal, worthy matron, Mrs. Jennie Ewing, and associate matron, Miss Verna Mae McWhorter, the past matrons and past patrons were presented rosettes.

Two pro-tem candidates, Mrs. Bertha Cheney and Dr. J. F. Neidhart, were given the degree work of the chapter by past matrons and past patrons, following the forms of earlier years. Conferring the work were Mrs. Ethel Muntzinger, worthy matron; Ralph G. Williamson, worthy patron; Mrs. Carhart, associate matron; Fred L. Carhart, associate patron; Mrs. Mary Lavenparger, conductress; Mrs. Katharine Smith, associate conductress; Mrs. Flora E. Price, secretary; Mrs. Emma Taylor, treasurer; Mrs. Maude Roberts, chaplain; Miss Pauline Ruhl, marshal; Mrs. Corn Tiltus, Adah; Mrs. Lou Brickley, Ruth; Mrs. Villa Neidhart, Esther; Mrs. Stella Cunningham, Martha; Mrs. Lydia Guthrie, Electa; Mrs. Rose Helwig.

LEMON FILLING

1 cup flour, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 egg, slightly beaten, 1/2 cup lemon juice, 1/2 cup water, rind of 1/2 lemon, 1/2 tablespoon butter.

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE Associated Press Feature Writer
The hostess who is her own cook and waitress needs to plan her parties in detail.

Much of the actual meal preparation can be done the day before. Fruit juices and fruit cocktails, vegetable appetizers and soups, often are improved by standing. Fish, chicken or meats can be cooked, cut up and made ready for last minute blending into sauces, salad, or soufflé mixtures. Even the sauces can be made up well in advance. Salads and their dressings need complete chilling.

You can measure out the quick bread ingredients and store them in the refrigerator until just before serving time when the liquid can be added. Pie crusts and tur-cases are just as good—some cooks think better—if they are chilled for 24 hours before they are baked. Creamed fillings keep perfectly for 24 hours if chilled.

Here is a menu suggestion for your next spring luncheon: cups of hot tomato soup (not creamed), served to guests in the living room. Top the soup with whipped cream and chopped parsley and paprika, and serve it with toasted wafers, or fish- or ham-covered canapés. If the day is warm, you may prefer chilled fruit juices in tall glasses, topped with fresh mint. You will not require crackers with these. While the guests are having their first course, the hostess has time to take up the next.

On one end of the dining room table, arrange serving plates plus a casserole of cheese soufflé, a dish of creamed mushrooms and celery and a bowlful of crisp green salad. The guests help themselves and find their places at the table. Rolls, jam and relishes are passed. Later the hostess clears off the table and brings in a trayful of assorted tarts—caramel or cream or jelly and strawberry. She then turns the coffee and passes mints and salted nuts.

Here's a menu that is served at the table and requires a little extra work by the hostess: Shrimp stuffed tomato salads for the first course; spinach ring with creamed hard-cooked eggs and mushrooms for the second course; spiced pears, hot rolls, strawberry jam and ripe olives; chocolate roll with whipped cream, or fruit sherbet with angel food cake, for dessert.

If salad is to be the main course for your meal, serve a hot cream soup first—mushroom, corn or asparagus. Then the large bowl of fruit, chicken, shrimp or salmon salad. Hot cheese biscuits, currant jelly and green olives and strawberry ice cream makes a delicious dessert on this menu.

Recipes for the use of citrus products are developed, tested and distributed through the home demonstration division of the Florida State College for Women, Tallahassee, and the State College of Agriculture, University of Florida.

Every homemaker knows that certain fruits refuse to "jell" without first-aid from apples, other fruits, or commercial pectin. Fruits that ordinarily jell easily are balky when they are fully ripe, or a bit overripe.

Home-Made Pectin
Now from the Florida extension department comes the cheering suggestion that homemakers may prepare their own orange pectin, seal it in jars and have it conveniently ready for later use. Two tested methods are given this flavor, home-made pectin, both of which contain lemon juice. Floridians also prepare a pectin from citron melon.

This pectin may be used as a foundation in making jellies from the fruit juices which do not contain a sufficient amount of pectin. After it is prepared, pour it into sterilized jars while hot and keep it for use with berries, peaches or other fruits. Two methods have been developed. Orange Pectin, No. 1 calls for:

One-fourth pound white portion orange peel, two tablespoons lemon juice, one-half pint of water.

Cut or grate the yellow from the peel of the orange. Pass the remaining white portion through a food chopper and weigh it. For each one-fourth pound of the white portion of the peel taken, add one-half pint of water, add the lemon juice, mix thoroughly, and allow to stand four or five hours. At the end of this time, add one and one-fourth pints of water and allow to stand over night. The next morning boil ten minutes and allow to cool. Place in a flannel jelly bag, press it to remove the juice and drain through a clean, flannel jelly bag.

RECIPE REQUESTS ANSWERED HERE

Chocolate Roll
A sponge roll is a special dessert that is not nearly so difficult to make as the average homemaker believes.

Pectin Test
Interesting and valuable in this aid worked out to determine when a juice contains sufficient pectin. Here are instructions for the alcohol pectin test:

Pour a teaspoon of fruit juice, after cooking and straining it, into a clean cup and put into the cup one teaspoon of grain alcohol of 95 per cent strength. (If grain alcohol cannot be obtained, use denatured alcohol. The test is not as accurate, but of practical value.) Mix by shaking gently, then pour into a spoon. If the precipitated pectin is in a solid clot, it is safe to add a volume of sugar to a volume of juice in making jelly; if, however, it has not gained in a clot, the amount of sugar should be decreased. When the test is made with denatured alcohol, the precipitate is usually not so heavy.

If fruit is sufficiently acid for jelly making, but is deficient in pectin, this deficiency may be supplied by the addition of pectin extracted from some other source. The peel and core of apples, the white part of the orange peel and the fleshy part of the citron melon are rich in pectin, and the extraction from these often is used with fruits deficient in this property.

Line up those jelly glasses now, or prepare a supply of pectin, and keep summer days free for the "great open spaces."

MISS MESEKE INVITED TO ATLANTIC CITY CONTEST

1934 Title Winner Asked To Attend Selection of Queen.
Miss Marilyn Meseke of 240 South Prospect street, Marion's "Miss America, 1934," yesterday received an invitation to be present at a ball the night of June 1 in Atlantic City at which "Miss Atlantic City" will be crowned.

The affair will be one of the outstanding social affairs of the season, according to word received from sponsors of the annual national beauty contest, with the city's leading society women as hostesses. The young woman who is crowned "Miss Atlantic City" will be the city's official hostess at the beauty pageant next fall.

George D. Tyson of Pittsburgh, Miss Meseke's manager after the won the beauty crown, has indicated that Miss Patricia Donley of Detroit, the 1933 title holder, will be present. "Miss Atlantic City" will be judged first in bathing suit, speech and diction contests and will be selected finally in an evening gown parade at the ball.

Miss Meseke is convalescing rapidly from an appendectomy three weeks ago.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.
Bowling
Is bowling a healthy sport for women?

I thoroughly believe in bowling as a healthy sport, both for men and women. As a form of exercise it has good psychological features. Interest in the game makes people forget they are taking exercise and they are, therefore, not likely to give up easily, which they would do with bedroom exercises or walking, both of which get somewhat monotonous.

It is splendid exercise for the back, the arms, the thighs and the legs and it cultivates co-ordination of the muscles with the eyes and the sense of equilibrium. It is good for a problem child of any age because it promotes companionship and good sportsmanship. It should appeal to women because it is a good way to streamline the body, and it stretches many muscles which otherwise would not be used.

Curiously enough, it reduces fat people and increases the weight of thin people. Neck, chest, back and thigh muscles that are becoming stringy and unbecomingly full out into rounded contours. It improves carriage and complexion.

That women themselves are finding it valuable is shown by the fact that there are 500 women bowling teams in the country, and that nearly one-fifth of all bowlers are women. I am told that there are over 76,000 women bowlers in the United States.

DIETS SUGGESTED TO IMPROVE SKIN

What diets are recommended for the skin?

Nature's remedies are probably the best skin tonics. Sunshine, fresh air, water and cleanliness are included in these. For complexion and health, the skin needs sulphur, iron, vitamin A and probably a newly-discovered vitamin which is present in liver.

Vegetables and fruits are substances which contain the natural minerals and vitamins that are skin tonics. Onions may be said to be good skin foods; the onion is rich in sulphur and it eaten raw probably is more beneficial than when cooked.

Among other foods that are good sources of sulphur are sprouts, cabbage, beet root, radishes, endive, cauliflower, red cabbage. Foods which contain iron are watercress, spinach, prunes, raisins, apricots, parsley, olives, dandelion leaves and nearly all dark green vegetables. Vitamin A is supplied by carrots, which contain carotene, the basic source from which vitamin A is manufactured. Do not peel the carrots because the surface, as with most vegetables, contains larger amounts of vitamins than the pulp.

Almonds and Brazil nuts contain oils which are said to be skin tonics. Plenty of water is also advisable.

Could Henry VIII Have Had Stomach Ulcer Pains?

History tells how Henry VIII would gorge himself with food and suffer afterwards. Don't be like him and ignore your sufferings. Udgas Tablets, a balanced formula, have been praised by thousands. Try a 25c box of Udgas for relief of ulcer and stomach pains, indigestion, gas pains, for heartburn, burning sensation, bloating and other conditions caused by excess acid. Udgas Tablets are safe to use and must help or your money refunded. At good drug stores everywhere.

DISTRICT CHURCH CONFERENCE HELD

Disciples of Christ Groups Held Workers on Tour.

America can come to a Christian America, the task of the Royal J. Dye, a Chicago mission field, said at a dinner meeting of the district churches of the Disciples of Christ at Central Christian church here yesterday.

One of four prominent members of the church who were state conducting conferences on wheels in the Disciples of Christ missions. Others in the group were Mrs. Phila Murphy, secretary of the Disciples of Christ, and Mrs. B. F. Park of Cleveland, secretary of women's work and Mrs. M. Cook of Cleveland, state secretary of the Disciples of Christ.

At Gallon yesterday they conducted a meeting in Gallon and today they will be in Ada.

Dr. Dye went into the Congo a missionary 40 years ago. Speaking last night, he said that the church has tried to solve its problems by taking out that there must be a change of heart first. He gave several instances of missionary work in America and said that there is plenty to be done.

Mrs. Park, a missionary in China from 1912-27, has been given a year's leave of absence as secretary of women's work and will return to the China field on Aug. 12. Women of Disciples of Christ churches throughout the state have been making supplies for Chinese mothers and babies and last night the women of Central church presented her with a large package of their contributions. The presentation was made by Mrs. H. H. Heiler, president of the Missionary society of the church.

Dinner Served

Mrs. Murphy talked on behalf of the "World Call" magazine and Mr. Cook spoke briefly as a representative of the state organization, reminding his audience that the church's missionary year will end June 30.

Dinner was served by women of Central church. Foster G. Sizemore of the Richmond church said grace. Dr. Dye and Mr. Cook were guests last night of Dr. and Mrs. Harry L. Bell at the parsonage on Bellefontaine avenue, and Miss Park was a guest at the E. L. Weimer home on Cleveland avenue. Mrs. Murphy had arranged in advance for hotel accommodations.

$2,429 VERDICT IN FATAL DELAWARE COUNTY CRASH

DELAWARE, O., April 15.—A verdict of $2,429.13 in favor of the plaintiff was given yesterday by Common Pleas Judge Fred K. Wickham in the case of the C. C. C. Highway, Inc., a trucking concern against Ralph Baker of east of Delaware.

The suit was a result of an accident at a Delaware street intersection on March 22, 1939, in which Milton Hubbard of Columbus, driver of a C. C. C. truck was killed in a collision with an automobile driven by Mr. Baker. Judge Wickham said the defendant did not contest the case and that it was submitted to him without a jury to determine the amount of damages. The suit claimed damages in the amount of $2,536.13.

WEDNESDAY RITES SET FOR MRS. IVAN P. BROWN

Services to Be Held at Assembly of God Church.

Funeral of Mrs. Pearl May Brown, 25, who died yesterday at 1:30 p. m. at her home at 944 West Center street, will be conducted Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the home and at 2:30 at the Assembly of God church, Rev. G. C. West, pastor, will be in charge. Burial will be made in Marion cemetery. Friends may call at the home. Mrs. Brown had been ill for the last four years.

Mrs. Brown is survived by her husband, Ivan P. Brown, her father, Clyde Blankenship of 872 Kenton avenue, two sisters, Mrs. Virginia Strouse of Glad street and Mrs. Bessie Bryant of Cheney avenue, and five brothers, Carl of Glad street, Harold who lives at the Brown home and Orville, Walter and Charles Blankenship who live with their father.

Mrs. Brown was born in Marion on March 10, 1915, daughter of Clyde and Dena Withrow Blankenship. Her marriage took place on Sept. 29, 1932. She was a member of the Assembly of God church.

WALLACE CAMPAIGN ISSUES PREDICTED

Seen As Advocate of Income and Debt Proposals

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Secretary Wallace will exert his influence, associates predicted today, to make campaign issues of two broad proposals for boosting farm income and easing farm debt burden.

The proposals, whose sponsors hold small hope of their enactment at this session of congress, are:

1. The marketing certificate plan, designed to boost prices of farm products to the "parity" goals of crop control legislation.

2. The Jones bill to authorize refinancing of farm debts on the basis of the land's productivity and two reduce interest rates from an average of 5.8 to 3 per cent.

Agricultural leaders with whom Wallace has been working said he was likely to ask the Democratic national convention to write these proposals into the platform if congress adjourned without enacting them.

Both proposals have encountered strong opposition from Republicans and some Democrats.

The marketing certificate plan is intended to make the crop control programs more nearly self-financing. In effect, it would require processors to pay so-called "parity" prices for farm products used in supplying the domestic market. (Parity prices would give farm products purchasing power equal to that which they possessed in 1909-14).

Processors would be required to buy certificates at rates equal to the difference between the actual market price and the parity price. Farmers would get income from the certificates.

The Jones farm credit measure has been described by Wallace as a means of placing the farm credit structure on a "sound basis." Its opponents contend that it would wreck the farmer cooperative features of the system and result in unsound lending policies. Sponsors declare that it would save borrowers at least $60,000,000 a year in interest charges.

There were 39 senators in the first congress of the United States.

BIRTHS LEAD DEATHS, 68 TO 53, IN MARCH

Births outnumbered deaths 68 to 53 in Marion city and county during March, reports of Dr. M. M. Weinbaum and Dr. N. Siffritt, city and county health commissioners show. Thirty-nine of the month's babies were boys, 29 were girls.

Dr. Weinbaum, city health commissioner, reported 64 births and 41 deaths in the city. There were 36 boys as compared to 26 girls. Heart ailment led as the principal cause of death in the city, claiming 10 lives. Of the other deaths three each were blamed on cerebral hemorrhage, diabetes, cancer and hardening of the arteries, two each to hip fracture, pneumonia, erysipelas, intestinal obstruction, streptococcus, shock, tuberculosis, kidney ailment and ruptured bladder.

Dr. Siffritt reported there were 12 deaths in the rural areas of the county as compared to four births. Three of the new arrivals were girls, the other a boy. Of the deaths, three were blamed on cancer, two on pneumonia and one each on gunshot wound self-inflicted, heart trouble, tumor, cerebral hemorrhage, grippe and accidental drowning. The cause of one death was not determined.

OFFICERS NAMED BY GALLON ROTARY CLUB

GALLON, April 16.—Dr. O. R. Kackley was elected president of the Gallon Rotary club Monday night.

Other officers elected were: vice president, O. E. Hill; secretary, treasurer, M. R. McCammon.

The club voted to contribute $5 to the Junior Rifle club which the Rotary club and Gallon Rifle club are sponsoring. This money will be used to buy ammunition until the government ammunition arrives. Richard Horn gave a report of the recent organization meeting of the Junior Rifle club. Visitors present were R. Thompson and L. D. Cahoon of Cardington and A. W. Schokski of Cleveland.

Thomas D. Bain Gives Talk to Burroughs Club

A HIGHLIGHT of the year's program for the Burroughs Nature club was the talk given by Thomas D. Bain, biology instructor at Thomas A. Edison Junior High school, at a meeting of the members last evening at the home of Miss Irene Curliet on South Main street.

Miss Christine Rieck, president, was in charge of a short business session, and Miss Bess Snider, president-elect, named her committee for 1935-36. Mrs. Clyde Nicodemus, chairman of the parks committee, told of the work to be done at the rock garden in McKinley park. No planting will be done this year to allow the present plants to gain a good head-start. One hundred rock garden plants were placed in the garden last fall by the club. Ten dollars was voted to carry on the work at the rock garden this summer.

Miss Snider, program chairman, introduced Mr. Bain, who presented his subject, "Microscopic Fairyland," with interesting and unusual slides. The program, presented in three parts, included the showing of living objects, preserved specimens and crystals. In addition to the main topic Mr. Bain presented a time exposure motion picture of the unfolding of flowers and pollination.

The following committees were named by Miss Snider: program, Miss Sophia Mack, Miss Ruth Artz, Mrs. George N. Hinds; membership, Miss Caroline Dewar, Miss Lela Brookshire, Mrs. J. E. Crawford; social, Mrs. John F. Lacey, Miss Christine Rieck, Mrs. F. D. Saint, Miss Gertrude Lawrence; field trips, Miss Edith Keeler, Miss Alice Snackenberger, Miss Jeanette Powers, Arthur Lay, Miss Irene Curliet, Miss Lucille Scholl and Mrs. Chester Trout; markers, Mrs. Clyde Nicodemus, Miss Mary Kull, Miss Alice Caulfield; legislative conservation, Miss Marie Ruehrmund, Mrs. C. H. Conley, Miss Grace Cunningham; literature, Miss Zella Terry, Miss Vedith Bab, Miss Lillian Plack; publicity, Miss Edna Dutton, Mrs. J. E. Smith, Mrs. George N. Hinds.

The members will be guests of the Quest club at a meeting Thursday evening at the Marion Reserve Power terminal building on West Center street. The next meeting will be the guest day party May 27 at Hotel Harding.

The club chorus and the affiliated men's chorus will sing Cadman's "The Father of Waters," a story of the Mississippi river set to music. L. G. Jones, public school music supervisor, will direct.

Historian of the Cadman composition will be a soloist from the music department of Capital university in Columbus.

The concert will be given about 8:30 p. m., between screenings of "Stardust," an "Inside" story of Hollywood and its talent account system. Tickets for the concert, which will entitle purchasers to view the picture, may be purchased from members of the club.

Willis, Edward, Harold and Robert Holloway, Lowell Chard, Harvey Hickman and Ralph Brislley. The bride wore an aqua blue dress and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses and iris. Her sister, Mrs. Harvey Hickman, and George Forrester were the attendants. Following the ceremony read by Rev. J. T. Maffin, there was a small reception and refreshments.

Weddings

The marriage of Miss Wanda Miley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Miley of near Waldo, and Delmar McAdow, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. McAdow of 348 Patton street, which took place Sunday at Russell, Ky., is being announced today. The ceremony was read at 11:30 o'clock Sunday morning in the Methodist church, with the pastor, Rev. O. P. Smith officiating.

For her wedding Miss Miley chose a street length dress of two tone blue celanese crepe, with which she wore contrasting accessories. Her attendant was Miss Mary McElidowney, sister of the bridegroom, and Mr. McElidowney was Mr. McAdow's best man.

The bride was graduated from the Waldo High school last year, and has been employed at Noble's restaurant. Mr. McAdow was graduated from Harding High school and is employed with the Marion Steam Shovel company. The couple will make their home with the bridegroom's parents for the present.

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Miss Jennie E. Pfeiffer, daughter of Mr. Carolyn Pfeiffer of 559 Toledo avenue, and Harley M. Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Long of Cardington, which took place Monday, April 8. The ceremony was read by Rev. R. S. McCutchen in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Long, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom. The couple will live in Cardington. Mrs. Long formerly was employed as a waitress at the Saratoga Grill.

The spring of a new crib for infants can be in raised to serve as a dressing table.

Importance of Industry in State Is Cited by Ohio C. of C. Speaker

Buckeye State Ranks 3rd
in Manufacturing, Lions Club Told.

WILLIAM A. MILLS

The importance of industry in Ohio's economic life was emphasized by William A. Mills of Columbus, director of the organization relations of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce in a talk at a luncheon meeting of the Marion Lions club at Hotel Harding Monday noon.

Pointing out that manufacturing produces more income in the state than any other field, Mr. Mills presented figures showing that Ohio ranks 33rd among the states in area but ranks third in manufacturing.

He declared that two factors, transportation and taxation, have played important roles in developing the state's industry.

Not only is the state well located, between Lake Erie and the Ohio river, but since the beginning of railroad development the most important lines in the country have passed through Ohio, he pointed out. Since transportation is an all-important factor in industry, the state has always been considered to be one of the best suited for large concerns, especially those who depend on markets in widely scattered parts of the country.

Tax Costs Not High
The state also has appealed to industry because it has been able to maintain a tax rate that compares favorably with other states, he pointed out. Recently, he said, several large concerns have moved to Ohio to escape rising taxes in other states.

"The people of Ohio realize," he declared, "that when industry prospers the entire community and the state as a whole prosper. The state has never placed any special, burdensome tax on business, as a group, and every person in the state has benefited as a result."

To illustrate the importance of industry in the state's economic life, he read a number of statistics showing that the gross annual income from industry is approximately $5,480,000,000 as compared to $350,000,000 for agriculture and $150,000,000 for mining and quarrying. He also listed

Chamber of Commerce estimates of income in several other occupations including $3,235,000,000 from wholesale trade, $3,138,000,000 from retail trade, $3,070,000,000 from public utilities and railroads, $3,000,000,000 from insurance premiums, $125,000,000 from service industries, $40,000,000 from amusements and $35,000,000 from the hotel business.

750,000 in Manufacturing
He also declared approximately 1,544,000 persons are employed in the basic, non-agrarian industries and that 750,000 persons or about half of the total number are employed in manufacturing.

Mr. Mills was introduced by L. E. Michel, secretary of the Marion Chamber of Commerce, who also spoke briefly. Mr. Michel reported approximately 4,500 persons are employed in manufacturing in Marion and that the city's industrial payroll amounts to more than $6,500,000 a year.

Cecil Gahler presided and gave a report of a committee in charge of arrangements for a citywide casting contest at McKinley park Monday. He reported a large number of entries from children but only a few from men.

Guests in addition to Mr. Mills and Mr. Michel were John Jiken of Columbus, Stanley Howe of Ridgeway, Ind., Joseph England of Indianapolis, Ind., and James F. Mahaffey of Marion.

No Decision Made on Levy Proposal

wages. Perhaps later the group may favor it, he said.

Ned Parshall, president of S. W. O. C. No. 1949 (C. I. O. union), said his organization is not opposed to the fire levy, but is convinced that relief is the No. 1 problem and should be given first consideration. He spoke critically of putting "a material thing ahead of a humanitarian movement."

He said the group is willing to go along on the fire levy if relief is taken care of first. He doubted that both levies could be passed. At one point he spoke of a minority group "seeking to save a few paltry dollars on insurance."

Ellis Oiler, representing S. W. O. C. No. 1947 (C. I. O. union) spoke in the same vein, saying his union is not opposed to the fire levy but believes relief is more important.

John Zuck, president of the Marion Central Labor Union (A. F. of L.), who later said he was speaking as an individual, declared that with all cooperation of all interests both relief and fire levies could be passed.

Citizens State Views

Fred Davis, unaffiliated citizen, spoke briefly urging council to give serious consideration to the difficulty of putting any levy across in Marion. With the full cooperation of labor and business it would be possible, he believes.

Fred Thompson of East Center street, another unaffiliated citizen, said a fire protection levy seems all right, but expressed dislike of the idea of the National Board of Underwriters telling the city it has to do such and such. The city buy two pumper machines, repair the fire alarm system and make other improvements and add eight firemen. If not, an increase in insurance rates would be made.

Mr. Thompson suggested that since residential properties would not be affected by the insurance rate increase, then it should not pay so much for the improvements. He suggested the business and industrial groups (whose rates would go up) pay two-thirds of the cost of the improvements. Later Mayor Snare said that probably the valuation of the different types of property would automatically take care of this.

Mr. Thompson also disliked the idea of junking old equipment and said it might be possible to use some in the East Side. Mayor Snare replied that only one old machine, now in reserve, would be junked.

Spreading out of the cost of improvements over a three or four or five-year period was also suggested by Mr. Thompson. He disliked the idea of spending the $50,000 or $60,000 (estimated cost of improvement) all at once.

"Most generally these things always have a little leak—a waste of money," he said.

Mayor's Statement

Mayor Snare was called upon for remarks and spoke favorably of the fire levy.

"Regardless of the increase in insurance rates, it will be necessary for the city to purchase some fire equipment in a short time," he said, "and it is not desirable to wait until we are out of money. We will have to put out fire no matter what our insurance rates are."

"It's up to you whether you want to get back to it and support

it. There is no use in submitting the proposal at the primaries if we don't have 100 per cent cooperation."

Mr. Parshall again spoke and urged the primary importance of relief.

The mayor said that every one knows no one in Marion will be permitted to go hungry and said that the city's relief clients now are being taken care of. He confessed it is a problem and that it has given officials some sleepless nights, but he declared this is not the proper time for a relief levy.

He expressed the belief that there may be a change in the attitude of the state and federal governments toward assisting cities on relief and that Marion should be in a position to take advantage of such a change.

Once before when the state had some money to distribute, it gave it to cities which were in the red on relief. Marion, which had a balance in its relief fund at that time, got none, officials said.

Predicted Solution

"I think the relief problem is going to be solved so far as the remainder of this year goes. In fact I am pretty sure that the council and myself are not in favor of submitting a relief levy this year," he said.

At this point, Mr. Welch made his proposal about extending the city limits and making a reapportionment of property in Marion.

He predicted the extension would provide sufficient funds not only for the fire department but for part of relief costs. He urged council to give the plan serious study.

Resolution Read

President Stiefel called in vain for further comments and then ordered the reading of the resolution which would place the fire levy on the May 14 ballot. After the first reading, a five-minute recess was called for council to confer. Afterwards, council voted to adjourn until Thursday night and to study the matter in the meantime.

In an informal session of council before the regular meeting, Mayor Snare reviewed the fire protection question. He said the closest estimate of the cost of the improvements recommended by the insurance people would be $53,000.

He also expressed the opinion that if both relief and fire levies were proposed they would not pass. The fire levy would require a 65 per cent favorable vote and relief 55 per cent, according to Solicitor Robinson.

The mayor said funds from a mill levy for two years would amount equal $52,000 and would put the fire department in first class condition.

As for the relief situation, he admitted the city is operating relief in the red at present, but said state relief funds will continue to come in for some time. The present financing can continue for 30 or 60 days without complaint from creditors of the relief department, he predicted.

"Relief can cover over night as far as the state and federal governments are concerned," he said. "Some states have had to wait for a long time before they get their money. We are not in that position. We can get our money right away. We can get our money right away. We can get our money right away."

GALION FIRE CHIEF MARKS ANNIVERSARY

H. F. Kile on Job for 22 Years.

Special to The Star.
GALION, April 16—Fire Chief Harry F. Kile of Galion is today observing his 22nd anniversary as a member of the Galion fire department.

Having served as a minuteman since Feb. 2, 1908, he became a regular fireman on April 16, 1918, and in June of that same year was appointed captain, which at that time was head of the department. He became chief when he was appointed by the former Mayor H. H. Hartmann on Jan. 1, 1923.

As the city has grown since he joined the fire fighters as a regular, Chief Kile has witnessed an increased personnel in the department and improved equipment which is now located in the modern headquarters of the new city hall which was completed early this year.

While there were only two regular firemen when Kile first became a regular member, there are now six men in the department. However, Kile said today that in order to have the system working properly there should be an additional two men.

YESTERDAY Brenda plunged deeper and deeper into the life of the street. After talking to Ned Barrow, she promised to go with him on a business trip.

CHAPTER II Mrs. Arnold's Charge

BREND A I feel disloyal in talking this way to you said Adelaide. It isn't as if Miss Ormond lived anywhere else in town you know. Somehow the street—we've been like one big family so long it gives us pride.

If you—if we were all under one roof it wouldn't give Miss Ormond the right to interrogate people about their private affairs as she does! Brenda spoke with spirit. I have a particular reason for wanting her to let Adelaide alone just now. I have a plan for the poor girl.

Again the dreamy Mrs. Rostetter chuckled. Looks as if you were taking an interest in the affairs of The Street yourself my dear.

At dinner that night Miss Burnham was exceedingly dignified. Adelaide's comment had acted as a pin prick in the tightly blown balloon of her concern for Ned Barrow. She who had enjoyed an urban amusement at the closely knit affairs of The Street had herself plunged perhaps more deeply into the block.

She determined to spend the evening in her room reading and writing letters. She reached the hall just as Mrs. Arnold without bothering to ring the bell stepped through the open screen.

"Brenda I want to speak to you please!"

It was too much! Brenda felt she had endured enough for one day. She murmured something about a headache and ran upstairs shutting her door as though a kidnapper was after her. In less than five minutes the inevitable knock sounded on those much-used panels.

"May I come in dear?" Adelaide asked, and without waiting for an answer she entered Mrs. Arnold's door behind her. A headache dear! Im so sorry! Mrs. Arnold is wonderful with headaches. She wants to rub your forehead. We all send for her when we have aches and pains. Chattered Adelaide. She should have been a nurse her fingers have real magic in them.

So it was that Brenda found herself presently between cool sheets while Mrs. Arnold sat patiently massaging a forehead behind which whirled enough disturbing thoughts to make it ache. Not a word was said of Dorothy, or Hugh Saltus or Elaine, not a word was said at all in fact. Under the spell of those clever fingers Brenda relaxed. Judge Barrow's face floated before her, Ned Barrow's grin cheered her. She slept.

But if Brenda believed a mere headache could over Mrs. Arnold's interest in her actions, she was doomed to disappointment. She was lingering over a second cup of coffee the next morning when her door at the night before peated. There was nothing soothing about her now. On the contrary she was alert and disapproving.

Now, Brenda she began briskly. Well talk about your visiting Hugh Saltus.

Adelaide murmured inarticulately sugared heavily a third cup of coffee and subsided into silence.

What shall we say about it? Brenda inquired. That you didn't approve? I'm sorry Mrs. Arnold. If that's the case but you see my conscience is perfect. I was on the subject. It was in broad daylight. Mr. Saltus has a housekeeper who acted as chaperone. If a chaperone was needed which I do not admit—and she looked the early caller squarely in the eye—I am old enough to be responsible for my own actions.

Mrs. Arnold sniffed. Meaning I take it that I'm to mind my own business? Well that's exactly why I'm here this morning. Brenda my dear. Your business is my business—when you live on the same street with Dorothy I'm responsible for her—far more so than if she were my own daughter.

"Why? The small author demanded. Why are you more responsible than if she were your own daughter? Why are you responsible for all her age? If she hasn't learned by now to take care of herself, she never will. I hope you'll forgive me for saying it Mrs. Arnold, but I do think your attitude toward Dorothy is so foolish it is almost farcical."

A seething silence fell upon the dining room. Adelaide held her breath, her eyes steadily on her coffee cup. Mrs. Arnold closed and unclosed her hands, opened her lips but to fold them tightly again. Only Brenda went calmly on with her breakfast.

"You know really," she continued presently, "when you've got to admit that Dorothy is substantial, or else that your guardianship of her is—absurd! At her age, she should be married and seeing her children off to school. If the fact that I don't in talk to a business cardholder who happens to live on The Street has a bad influence on her, then—"

Adelaide emerged from her cup long enough to say "I think

Killing Pressure of Blockade Forces Nazis To Seize Neutrals, Experts Say

WHY HITLER MOVED NORTH

Why did Germany invade Scandinavia? What could she gain? The Associated Press asked the experts on the political and economic situation in Europe. The first answer here is simple. The second is not. The first is that the invasion might lead to a new world war.

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The War Behind the War, a German magazine, has announced that Germany is invading Scandinavia.

By War Behind the War, I mean the backstage moves that are slowly sapping the strength of all the struggling powers in Europe.

The fact that Germany finds it necessary to invade neutral states is a symptom. It implies that the German high command believes the war of strategy is arising the life blood of the Reich faster than that of the Allies.

It may also mean the Germans see opportunity for a new and dangerous blitzkrieg in the North Sea.

That's the sum total of prevailing expert opinion in Washington even though the experts can't agree among themselves just how much more of a beating the Germans are taking than the Allies.

But the experts do agree that the invasion of Scandinavia will be a disaster for Germany.

1. The New Blockade

The experts have suspected for weeks that the British planned to tighten their economic blockade against the Reich even to the point of closing international trade to the winds.

The first step was the mining of so many neutral waters—a necessity if it were shipments from Scandinavia to Germany were to be stopped.

The next logical step would be to move in on Sweden and force the passage or force the Swedes to stop sending the same ore to Germany through the Baltic.

Some persons suspect Germany felt impelled to nip the British plan in the bud or else submit to strangulation without a struggle.

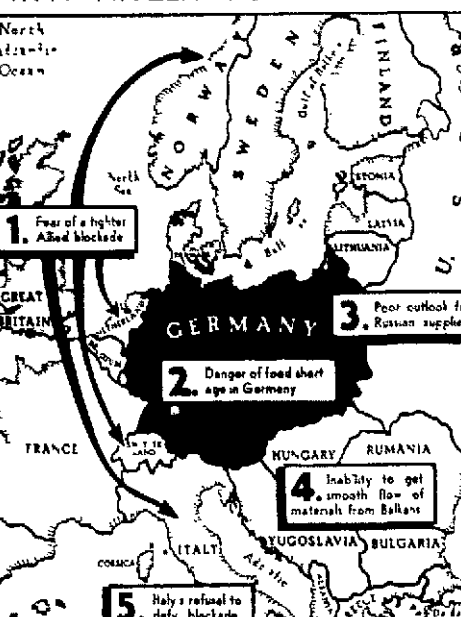

Obviously the Swedish step would be the last card in the German hand. There are Holland and Belgium, Switzerland and Italy. Theoretically the British navy holds the power of life and death over these countries. Blockade can starve them too just as surely as it starved the Germany of 1918 and is trying to starve the Germany of today. Practically the threat of blockade should be sufficient.

Anyway German invasion of Denmark and Norway creates a diversion that can temporarily stall the British plan. Certainly the Allies hands are too full in Scandinavia to be tightening the blockade elsewhere for the time being.

2. Dwindling German Food Reserves

The German high command must prepare now to feed the nation next winter. Reliable German information trickling through to American government men indicates the prospects are dark. Germany is now suffering from a shortage of meat and fats. The stuff war energy is made of.

This doesn't mean the German people are starving in the sense that their stomachs are empty. But it does mean that the Nazis are giving the average German 24 per cent less fat and 32 per cent less meat than he got in 1916. It means the German meat and fat rations are not sufficient to produce peak energy. Workers can't perform at wartime speed.

Here are the five barriers under Hitler's saddle which the experts believe may account for Germany's Scandinavian adventure.

The Danish invasion means Germany will have plenty of fat for a while since Denmark's pig population is about the same as her people—some 4,000,000. But Danish feed must be shipped in and the British won't let any more through now that Germany has taken over Pigs can't live without food either.

Thus it would appear that the Germans must take drastic steps.

3. The Disappointing Russo-German Alliance

From two Americans who spent all their time studying Russian economics and agriculture, I learn that Russia's last two crops were poor and she now has little reserve of food for her own people. The Finnish war burned up most of her oil reserves. And besides, Russian collective farms depend on gasoline motored tractors. This means the Russians can supply the Germans only with manganese—the material that toughens steel—unless they are to starve their own people and deprive their own army of the oil that makes it run. And there's not a sign coming out of Russia now that indicates the Soviet is preparing to sacrifice itself on the altar of Germany—yet.

True, the alliance guarantees Germany that she won't have to fight on an Eastern as well as a Western front but that's a negative advantage. It doesn't give Germany what she needs now—food and raw materials.

4. The Balkan Stalemate

This looks like the straw that might break the camel's back. So far both of Germany's allies have let her down in the Balkans. Instead of agreeing months ago to partition the Balkans into zones of influence and regulate them accordingly, both Russia and Italy are busy giving guarantees to Balkan nations that might be attacked. So are the Allies. Particularly is Italy willing to help any Balkan state against Russia.

All this confusion doesn't help Germany assure a lifeline of food and oil from the Balkan states. Rather the semi-independent Balkans can spend much of their time flinching first with one big power and then another.

5. Italy's Straddle

Hitler must be disappointed in his axis partner Mussolini. The Italian dictator has not yet gone in and pitched for German economics.

If Italy should defy the British blockade and play economic stooge for Germany, Germany might get everything she needed from the seven seas through Italy. But no. The British are rationing Italy a nation that can't live without imports. At Gibraltar and Suez, Italian ships must be inspected.

All of these backstage battles in the war of strategy are exerting a terrific strain on the German high command and on the German people. Most Americans figure they can't take it for more than one year of total warfare—certainly not for more than two.

So when the British put on the pressure the response was electric. German survival was at stake.

Next article: Is Germany trying to kill two birds with one stone?

thing is radically wrong somewhere.

"Brenda," Mrs. Rostetter breathed and took a long sip of her coffee.

Dorothy began Mrs. Arnold.

"Dorothy is—she isn't—Brenda."

Brenda said Adelaide's reply.

"This," she said Adelaide's reply.

"Is what comes of being a writer."

Sabine said—abnormal. Psychological expressions both of them.

I have no doubt she went on in a voice from which all hope had departed.

that if we looked among her books we'd find Freud and Jung. A perfect child like this one—with curly hair—

Her gaze dwelt bleakly on the curls. Somehow they seemed to enhance the awfulness of the situation. Brenda I regret more than I can say having to tell you this having to seem to be rude to your grandfather's grand daughter.

but for the present—until you get over the idea in your mind of yours, or until Dorothy is strong enough mentally and morally to hold her own against you I think it would be well—

And when do you think that will be Mrs. Arnold? Dorothy is about ten years older than I am. When do you think she'll be able to hold her own against me?

Again a silence fell upon the room. Brenda gave triumphant looks up. Mrs. Arnold's eyes were deeply sorrowful. Adelaide looked still sadder. And suddenly the girls' victory seemed to her a cheap thing, a thing not worth what it was costing these two kindly women. She jumped up from her chair and put her arm about Mrs. Arnold.

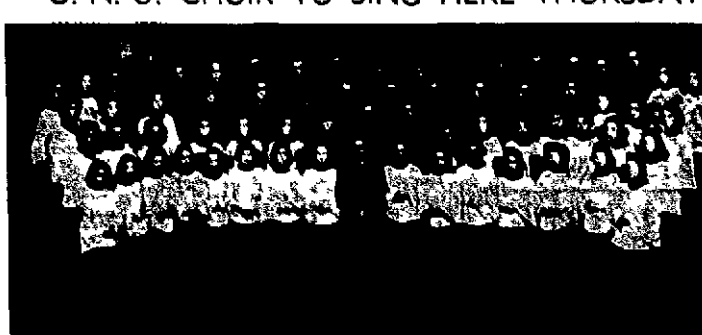

"Different Atmosphere"

I'm sorry—truly sorry to have talked so. I'm sorry you don't approve of my calling on Hugh Saltus. From my point of view you know there's no harm in it. I really can't promise to give it up. But I do promise to keep away from Dorothy. She thought of the stolid, coo-eyed woman who was Mrs. Arnold's charge and her lips twitched but she went on. You see I've been brought up in a different atmosphere than those of you who live on The Street Mrs. Arnold. No one in New York disapproves of me because I write. Some of them even thought it was—was credible. I'll try to understand you here if you'll come half-way I mean—if you'll try to get my point of view occasionally.

To her surprise Mrs. Arnold said. That's fair Adelaide you try to get Brenda's point of view and added distantly. Even though she's a writer?

O. N. U. CHOIR TO SING HERE THURSDAY

Winding up a 2,000 mile tour which took them to New York City for a broadcast Sunday afternoon the capella choir of Ohio Northern University will be heard in a program Thursday night at 7:30 at Epworth Methodist church.

Sixty young men and women combine their voices to create this vocal symphony. Singing from memory the choir presents a wide repertoire of the unaccompanied sacred choral music of all ages the classics of the sixteenth century, Russian compositions and especially the works of modern and contemporary American and English composers.

Harold Owens, nationally known as an authority in the field of vocal music and choral conducting is the director. Prior to going to Ohio Northern university he was director of the Hagdun Choral Society in Chicago and operatically he was associated with the Boston Grand Opera company and the Stadischer of Berlin. He has developed the university capella choir which has already demonstrated in its public appearances that it is one of the outstanding student choirs of the nation.

A Varion girl Miss Mary Swain of 128 South Seftner avenue, is a member of the choir.

WAR STOCKS GET ATTENTION

Specialties Helped While Buyers Cash Some Profit on Aviation Shares.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Buyers took on an assortment of specialties while cashing some aircraft profits in today's stock market.

War news held the main attention of Wall Street and brought support for stocks that might benefit if the allies step up their orders in this country.

Bonds were irregularly lower and commodities a shade improved. Paris and London markets were steady and Amsterdam easier. The "free" pound sterling dipped in terms of the dollar.

Among resistant stocks, some at new highs for the year, were Bullard, International Paper common and preferred, Reynolds, Spring, United Aircraft, Curtis-Wright common and "A," Chrysler, U. S. Steel and Bethlehem.

Announcement the British-French purchasing missions had agreed to the government's conditions for the release of latest type fighting planes was viewed as constructive for the manufacturers.

2,051 ANIMALS IN STOCK AUCTION HERE

Consignments of 305 Persons Handled at Sale.

Top fat hogs ranged from $5.35 to $5.40 and the hog market was 15 to 20 cents higher than a week ago when the Marion Union Stock Yards marketed 2,051 head of stock for 305 consignors. The hog market was a little slow as compared with last week. Other top prices included $9.30 for steers, with the cattle market active and prices strong to 25 cents higher than a week ago, $11.90 for yearling calves with prices 50 cents to 1 higher than last week, and $3.30 for clip lambs, with prices higher by 50 to 75 cents. The cattle and sheep markets were active.
